Subject: ASPECT Support Status: TPC Fire

Morning everyone,

The cloud cover is too low for us to collect any data with our sensors. We made a few loops this morning during a photo-only mission (oblique from this morning attached). The forecast is for sub-optimal cloud cover until mid to late afternoon. We've had ASPECT return to base and wait for conditions to improve.

We'll reassess the weather conditions early afternoon. If conditions improve sufficiently or there has been a new development with respect to the fire/plume, we'll make another flight this afternoon. Otherwise, we'll re-assess conditions Friday morning for continuing the mission if the Region still requires our support.

A draft report will be provided shortly. I will coordinate with Kellon regarding funding.

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving.

ASPECT is airborne and en route. ETA 1.5 hours (0800 central)

Adam,
I'll give you a call once they're close.
